

THE ADVICE SISTERS - February 2016

Crazy Crus! 2013 Grand Crus of Bordeaux tasting in NYC

---

Starting in the north in Saint-Estèphe, a region generally noted for producing wines with a solid tannic structure and good acidity we began with Chateau Phelan Segur. Priced at about $35 a bottle, the wine was ruby in color with a nose featuring berries and some cinnamon. The wine was not at all tight and featured notes of plumb and cherries on the palate, though the finish was a bit dusty. This wine reflected very much on the vintage and is a great wine to enjoy now, though its age-ability is probably somewhat in doubt.